RECEIPTS OF FROZEN FISH OFF FROM 1930

Receipts of fresh fish at Boston are running quite a bit behind 1930. For the week ending January 22, there were 125 arrivals at the Boston pier with 3,845,850 pounds. In the corresponding period of 1930, there were 141 arrivals with 5,149,500 pounds.

From January 1 to date there have been 363 arrivals with 10,807,750 pounds. In the same period of 1930, 428 vessels brought in 15,172,000 pounds of fresh fish.

Groundfish have been in moderate demand. The weather so far this month has been unfavorable for fishing, due to stormy weather. In addition to the bad weather, some boats report encountering dogfish on some of the eastern banks, an unusual occurrence for this season of the year.

In the corresponding week last year, good weather prevailed on the offshore fishing grounds and some of the fleet found good fishing, although others cruised from Western bank to south Shoal lightship without much success.

Prices last week ranged from $4.50 to $7 for haddock; $4 to $6 for large cod and $3.50 to $4.50 for markets as compared with $4 to $6 for haddock; $5.50 to $10 for large cod and $4 to $5 for markets in the same week of 1930.

MARKET FLEET SHOW EFFECTS OF COLD WAVE

Stormy weather was reported on the fishing banks by the few vessels that reached the fish pier in South Boston yesterday. Their decks and rigging were coated with ice and the fishermen reported that they were kept busy chopping away this frozen spray during their lost 48 hours on the fishing grounds.

The beam trawler Boston was forced to make an early return to the pier on account of the breaking down of the mechanism that controls her winch. She had been out five days when the accident occurred, so she steamed back to port from Georges Bank and arrived yesterday morning with 2000 pounds of mixed fish in her holds.

Sardines Up.

The Maine packers have advanced the price of sardines 15 cents per case. The number of cases packed this season in the Maine factories was 800,000 cases less than in the previous season.

TWO HALIBUTERS SAILED TODAY

The first halibut craft of the season to sail, left this morning. Sch. Pilgrim, Capt. Christopher Gibbs was the first to get away and was followed shortly after by sch. Oretha F. Spinney, Capt. Carl Olsen. Both vessels, it is understood, will hit for the Grand Banks.
